PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

Grant Writing Success Workshop

Genesis Project is hosting a one-day Grant Writing Success workshop on, Friday, October 16, 2015. Cost is $125 for the full day, which includes all training materials. The training is designed to identify actual funding opportunities available to our community, dialogue and build collaborative partnerships with other organizations to pursue funding, learn the grant writing process from start to finish, and be matched with others pursuing similar funding opportunities to form grant writing teams geared to capitalize on limited resources and eliminate duplicate efforts..

Our Training is targeted for both beginners and experienced grant writers. Focus is on finding actual grant opportunities and working collaboratively to write successful grant proposals, quickly, efficiently, and accurately. Training covers every aspect of the grant writing process, start to finish: how to find a grant; understanding grant application language and terms; organizing and writing a grant proposal; understanding the grant review process; resubmission; and more.

Participants will walk away with a grant writing toolkit, connection to a local non-profit resource hub, and ideally connected to others who will work with you to write and submit proposals for desired funding opportunities.

Presenter: Greg Muller, PhD Executive Director of the Family and Community Support Institute. Over the pass decade, thru part-time proposal writing has secured research and service dollars totaling $7 million.

Seating is limited. Register online at: www.genesisproject1.org
