LISTEN UP, CHARLOTTE!

Levine Museum of the New South, the Charlotte Symphony, and A Sign Of The Times of the Carolinas invite you to two free concerts conceived to address the issues of discrimination and inequality. These concerts mark an unprecedented approach to combating racism and promoting unity in Charlotte.

By weaving personal stories of the local African-American experience and historical context provided by Brenda Tindal, staff historian at Levine Museum, with musical selections from Bach to Bill Withers, the three organizations will provide the community with a shared experience while addressing equity, race relations and similar issues through music and spoken word.

The events are free, but registration is encouraged. Join us for one of the following Listen Up, Charlotte performances:

Friday, April 28 - 7:30 p.m.
First Baptist Church-West

Sunday, April 30 - 6 p.m.
Providence Day School
