

Race Matters for Juvenile Justice

Presents

Hidden in Plain Sight— Exposing the Costs of Racism

RMJJ's Second Community Conference explores the cost of racism in core systems including Criminal Justice, Education, Employment, Faith and Healthcare and strategies to reduce racial disproportionality and disparities in our

DATE: Monday, October 30, 2017

TIME: 8:30 a.m.—4:00 p.m.

LOCATION: Crown Plaza Executive Park Hotel

Featuring Keynote Speaker Ramona Brant

What do you do when you are sentenced not to days or years, but a word—life?

After serving 20 years of a life sentence for a first time, nonviolent drug offense, President Barack Obama commuted Brant's sentence. She now travels the country educating communities about the impact of domestic violence, mass incarceration, and mandatory minimum sentences on families and communities.

Register today at RMJJ.org