150 YEARS of UNDENIABLE PROGRESS

1867 - 2017

The Beatties Ford Road Corridor Preservation and History Project is between Johnson C. Smith University (JCSU) and Culture Blocks. The Beatties Ford Road Corridor Preservation and History Project seeks to engaged resident from the designated Culture Blocks communities in an oral history, preservation, and collection of artifacts project towards a community traveling exhibit and programming. The Beatties Ford Road Corridor Preservation and History Project allows residents to participate in the following activities:

- Preserving Us is a preservation workshop where community members can learn first-hand knowledge on how to preserve photographs, paper documents and receive FREE scanning. The final project includes a future community traveling exhibit and programming.

- Into the Mic is the oral history component of the project which provides community members the opportunity to share orally the history of Beatties Ford Road Northwest Corridor. This includes collecting stories from one-on-one interviews, group sessions and discussions and at key community events.

Workshops are facilitated by Monika Rhue (Nooma), Project Manager. Send an email to mrhue@jcsu.edu or call 704-371-6740 to participate. The North Carolina Digital Heritage Center a statewide digitization and digital publishing program will help with scanning at the November 18, 2017 workshop.
