Seasons Greetings from Profound Gentlemen!!!

Profound Gentlemen Works to keep Men of Color in Education

Things are looking up for PG's founders, Jason Terrell and Mario-Jovan Shaw. Three years ago, the two Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools teachers formed an organization that would not only focus on attracting men of color to the classroom but provides them with support so they would stay.

Then and now, only 2 percent of teachers nationwide are African-American men, and, according to the U.S. Department of Education, they leave the classroom at higher rates than any other groups. Shaw and Terrell wanted to help turn that around.

The Future Impact

Profound Gentlemen truly believes that Our Boys are our Future so we wanted to go behind the scenes and capture a student's perspective on his teacher and their impact on his education and life journey.

We interviewed an Olympic High School Senior from Charlotte Mecklenburg School District, Josue Romero.
