Weekly Campaign Newsletter

On the 2018 general election ballot, City of Charlotte voters have the opportunity to approve a $223 million bond referenda package that will fund construction and revitalization of transportation corridors including streets and sidewalks, affordable housing, and improvements to neighborhoods in established and emerging high-growth areas.

Voters will find the bonds at the end of the ballot in the referenda section following the six NC constitutional amendments.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Voters approved city bonds in 2014 and 2016. Why does the city need more money now?

A: Streets, intersections, curbs, gutters and other facilities need constant maintenance and improvement to operate safely and efficiently. City Council and staff use a master planning process to address needs, and part of the funding model involves tying specific projects to specific bond packages. The city seeks public approval as funding is needed and this is the third of four bond referenda as part of the current 10-year plan.

Project Spotlight: Affordable Housing

On this year's ballot, $50 million will go to the Charlotte Housing Trust Fund, matching private investment dollars, to provide affordable and well-maintained housing for low- and moderate-income individuals and families in the Charlotte area. Below is an example of a recent project made possible by Charlotte Housing Trust Fund dollars.

The Tall Oaks community is centered on preserving affordable housing in response to the needs of the existing residents. The redevelopment plan is within the Cherry community, one of Charlotte's most historic neighborhoods and oldest African American communities. The development consists of 81 units for families with incomes up to 60% of Area Median Income (AMI) utilizing 9% Low Income Housing Tax Credits and $1,215,000 of City of Charlotte Housing Trust Fund. It offers one-, two-, three- and four-bedroom units on scattered sites within walking distance of each other. Amenities include outdoor seating areas, an exercise room, multi-purpose room, computer lab and leasing center.
