Getting ready for the moment we know our opponent

Steve -

The primary is less than a month away, and that means things are heating up on the Republican side.

They have a crowded field, and we're not sure who we'll be up against yet. But here's what we do know: Over the next few weeks, they could very well embrace an even more extreme, far-right agenda that's even more out of step with the voters of the 9th District.

They'll likely compete to prove who is closest to Trump on every issue — from family separation to ripping health care away from millions.

As soon as we know our opponent, we'll have to get to work immediately making sure people hear our message. So we need to start preparing today:

Will you make a \$3 donation to our campaign ahead of next week's official FEC deadline? This is the last FEC deadline before the primary in our special election.

Thank you so much for your support. I couldn't do this alone. Our success is only possible because of grassroots supporters like you.

Yours in this fight,

Dan
