No matter who wins next week, we know what to expect

Steve -

The Republican primary in our race is less than a week away, so today I wanted to give you a look at who we think we'll be up against and ask you to help us get ready for the general election.

Recent polling shows that the two frontrunners are Dan Bishop (the architect of HB2) and Stony Rushing (Mark Harris' hand-picked replacement).

Dan Bishop is not just the architect of HB2, the notorious "bathroom bill" that discriminated against LGBTQ people throughout North Carolina, but he's the favorite of the special interests and DC Republican insiders. They know he'll be a rubber stamp for their agenda in Congress, and they're already directing money his way.

As for Stony Rushing, he was endorsed by Mark Harris almost as soon as Harris dropped out of the race. Rushing has peddled conspiracy theories and called for Harris to be seated despite the overwhelming evidence of election fraud. He even sponsored a resolution that would allow the Confederate flag to be flown on government property.

No matter who wins next week, we know they're going to push a far-right agenda that's way out of step with North Carolina values. And we know the special interests are going to flood our district with millions of dollars in dark money.

But we also know this is a race we can win! The general election is just around the corner, and our team is working hard to get ready. That's why I'm hoping we can count on your help:

Will you make a \$3 donation to our campaign ahead of next week's primary? With your help, we can win this seat.

Thank you in advance for chipping in! Your grassroots support means the world to me.
