Dear Steve,

Today, we launch On View, a new podcast series that examines how museums and cultural institutions are evolving to keep pace with a changing world.

The podcast features leading voices in the field discussing both the challenges and opportunities that technology presents. For me, it's an opportunity to fill a canvas with new ideas that might help arts institutions better reach and engage people in the digital age.

Our first guest is Marjorie Schwarzer – an award-winning writer, critic and educator on museums at the University of San Francisco's graduate museum studies program.

Our conversation traces the path of American museums through history—examining their purpose and origins, in order to better understand where we are today.

Upcoming guests include:

- Nina Simon, founder/CEO of OF/BY/FOR ALL, a global initiative to make cultural and civic spaces more inclusive;
- Kimberly Drew, a curator, writer and social activist;
- Sina Bahram, accessibility consultant and founder of Prime Access Consulting, an inclusive design firm;
- and more!

Join us for On View and look for new content posted every two weeks at: onviewpodcast.com. Learn more about why we launched this podcast and Knight's arts and technology initiative here.

Sincerely,

Chris Barr
