We wanted to bump Dan's note from earlier this week for you. It's about why this week's FEC deadline is so important to our campaign. Please take a minute to read it and then make a \$3 donation today.

Steve -

Our most important FEC deadline so far is just a few days away. Before I ask you to make a donation to our campaign today, please give me a chance to explain why this request is so important.

As you probably know, after each of these official deadlines our campaign has to publicly report how much we've raised and from how many people. That means this deadline is our chance to show the strength of our grassroots team.

This is our final end-of-quarter deadline before Election Day. How we do will set our momentum and set the tone for the final stretch of the campaign.

I'm ready to show that our grassroots-funded campaign can really take on the DC special interests who are going to prop up my opponent with millions of dollars.

Every new donor sends a signal about the strength of our team. That's why I've set an ambitious goal focused on generating as many individual donations as possible before the deadline.

Steve, I've seen what this team can do, and I'm counting on supporters like you to step up before this critical deadline. That's why I need to ask:

Will you make your first donation to our campaign ahead of our June 30 deadline? I would not ask if it wasn't important.

Your support throughout this fight has been humbling. I'm so proud of what we've already accomplished, and I can't wait to cross the finish line with you by our side in just 78 days.

Yours in this fight,

Dan
