June 29 – July 3

Join us from home to engage in live conversations about the future of our communities and democracy.

INFORMED & ENGAGED
Racism in immigrant communities
with Tanzina Vega, Karen Attiah, and Karen K. Ho
Monday, June 29, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

The rising Black Lives Matter movement is inspiring important conversations around racism in immigrant communities — and shaping how journalists report on race issues, police brutality and other important topics. How are they shedding light on colorism and classism within their own communities? On Episode 3 of Informed & Engaged, presented in partnership with the National Association of Hispanic Journalists and the Asian American Journalists Association, we'll be joined by journalists Tanzina Vega, Karen Attiah and Karen K. Ho, who will have an honest discussion about immigrants, explicit racism and allyship.

Hosted by Karen Rundlet, Director/Journalism at Knight Foundation

VISION

Free expression on college campuses

with Dr. Wayne Frederick and Suzanne Nossel

Thursday, July 2, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

For years, we've seen the notion and meaning of free speech unpacked, examined and challenged on college campuses. What do today's college students think about free expression on campus, and how do they understand the rights guaranteed by the First Amendment? How has COVID-19 changed the way college students speak out? On Episode 10 of VISION, we'll talk with Dr. Wayne Frederick, president of Howard University, and Suzanne Nossel, CEO of PEN America. They'll share insights on how students are engaging in our democracy in this unusual time.

Hosted by Sam Gill | SVP/Chief Program Officer at Knight Foundation
