July 20 – 24

Join us from home to engage in live conversations about the future of our communities and democracy.

INFORMED & ENGAGED

Collaborative journalism that serves communities

with Resolve Philly's Jean Friedman-Rudovsky and Cassie Hayne

Monday, July 20, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

Journalists have traditionally been highly competitive, independent players — but in the era of shrinking newsrooms, they're discovering how collaboration can increase their impact. On Episode 5 of Informed & Engaged, we're diving into the types of collaboration, from sourcing to storytelling, that are having real impact in Philadelphia. We'll hear from Roxann Stafford, managing director of the Knight-Lenfest Local News Transformation Fund, and Jean Friedman-Rudovsky and Cassie Hayne, co-executive directors at Resolve Philly, a collaborative journalism hub. They'll discuss building a model for local journalism that's equitable, collaborative, and informed by community voices and solutions.

COAST TO COAST

Building equitable public spaces

with landscape architect Walter Hood

Tuesday, July 21, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

Public spaces allow different people to collide and build a shared sense of local identity, as long as everyone is invited in. How do communities rebuild their public spaces in equitable and inclusive ways? What role do history, culture and the arts play in the future of urban spaces? On Episode 10 of Coast to Coast, we'll hear from Walter Hood, a world renowned landscape architect, Knight Public Spaces Fellow, and creative director and founder of Hood Design Studio. Together, we'll explore how urban spaces can preserve history and build community.

Hosted by Lilian Coral and Lilly Weinberg | Knight Foundation directors in the Community and National Initiatives Program

VISION

Free speech in 2020

with First Amendment attorney Eugene Volokh

Thursday, July 23, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

As the nation has changed, so has our understanding of free speech and the First Amendment. What does free speech look like in the digital age? What do the First Amendment's protections look like in the modern era? On Episode 13 of VISION, we're talking with Eugene Volokh, a prominent First Amendment law professor at UCLA, as part of a look at contemporary free speech issues.

DISCOVERY

Meeting people where they are

with Lord Cultural Resources's Joy Bailey Bryant

Friday, July 24, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

The pandemic and national racial reckoning have tested our ability to connect with each other and challenged institutions to serve their communities with greater thoughtfulness. How can we design and deliver arts and culture to achieve positive impacts in our communities? What does engaging a community look like amid a pandemic — and what does it mean for the future? On Episode 5 of DISCOVERY, we'll talk with Joy Bailey Bryant, vice president and managing director of Lord Cultural Resources, which plans and manages cultural resources. Together, we'll explore how to effectively engage our communities in creating an equitable future.

Hosted by Priya Sircar | Director/Arts at Knight Foundation
