July 27 – 31

Join us from home to engage in live conversations about the future of our communities and democracy.

INFORMED & ENGAGED

Racism's reach in communities

with journalists Hugo Balta and Lenzy Krehbiel-Burton

Monday, July 27, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

Our nation's moment of reckoning is surfacing important conversations on race, ethnicity and identity. On Episode 6 of Informed & Engaged, we'll talk to leaders of two of the largest organizations for journalists of color: Hugo Balta, president of the National Association of Hispanic Journalists (NAHJ), and Lenzy Krehbiel-Burton, vice president of the Native American Journalists Association (NAJA). Together, we'll discuss the country's heightened race awareness and the opportunities that lie in the decades-long fight for equity and inclusion — both in and out of the newsroom.

Hosted by Paul Cheung | Director/Journalism + Technology Innovation at Knight Foundation

COVID-19 has greatly exposed America's digital divide, bringing to light disparities in access to digital services for many communities. As we transition to an even more digitally connected world, how can the millions of Americans who urgently need internet access get it? How can we ensure equitable access to digital services that allow us all to engage, learn and play? On Episode 11 of Coast to Coast, we'll talk with innovators from three Knight cities who are advancing work in the digital public square during the pandemic: Bruce Clark, executive director of Digital Charlotte; Joshua Edmonds, director of digital inclusion for the City of Detroit; and Jordan Sun, chief innovation officer for the City of San Jose.

Hosted by Lilian Coral and Lilly Weinberg | Knight Foundation directors in the Community and National Initiatives Program

THE FUTURE OF DEMOCRACY

Inside the Facebook advertiser boycott

with Free Press & Free Press Action Fund's Jessica J. Gonzalez

Thursday, July 30, 1 p.m. ET | 10 a.m. PT

This month, hundreds of advertisers, nonprofit organizations and individuals began boycotting Facebook advertising as part of the #StopHateForProfit campaign. On Episode 14 of The Future of Democracy, formerly called VISION, we'll talk with Jessica J. González, organizer of the campaign and co-chief executive officer of Free Press and Free Press Action Fund, two nonprofits that give people a voice in crucial media decisions.

Hosted by Sam Gill | Knight Foundation's SVP/Chief Program Officer
