We welcomed back our educators for the 2020-21 academic year! This year looks different for a lot of us, but we've made pivots to ensure that our educators still have a strong community of support during these times.

We are celebrating Black Philanthropy Month (BPM)! The goal of BPM, created by Dr. Jackie Bouvier Copeland and the Pan-African Women's Network, is to inform, involve, inspire, and invest in Black philanthropic leadership to strengthen African-American and African-descent giving in all its forms. Profound Gentlemen leans into the importance of amplifying voices in communities of color and highlighting the ways we positively impact our communities.

"At an early age, I learned the importance of having a voice and using it. Public schools too often silence Black boys in classrooms because they aren't able to connect with them. Filling the lack of black identity involves us hearing the voices of Black boys in classrooms across America."

Executive Director, Jason Terrell talks about the importance of being bold in addressing the lack of black identity for black boys in public schools and makes a call to action for black males to tell their stories.
