Dan Bishop outdid himself on this one.

Steve, Dan Bishop is at it again. He's turning this crisis into an attack on public schools:

Corey A. DeAngelis @DeAngelisCorey · Sep 9

BREAKING: Congressman Dan Bishop just introduced legislation to fund students directly if their schools don't reopen in person.

The funding could follow the child to a private school, homeschool, or microschool.

It would be 10% of the next stimulus funding amount.

This is called the CHOICE Act.

CHIP IN

Dan Bishop wants to put students and teachers' lives at risk and penalize schools for taking safety seriously. He is so wrong on so many levels.

That's why we have to get Cynthia to Congress. Cynthia wouldn't be where she is today without public education. She believes that everyone should have safe access to a high-quality public education, regardless of their zip code. But Dan Bishop's extremism is putting our students' health and their education at risk. We have to get rid of this guy.

We need an advocate in Congress that values public schools and people's safety, not compromises them. And that's Cynthia. But we cannot bring leadership change to NC-09 without grassroots supporters like you. Can you chip in \$25 or more today so we can ensure compassionate, responsible leadership for North Carolina?
