TOMORROW IS THE LAST DAY TO VOTE

The 2020 general election is less than own week away and exercising your right to vote has never been more important for the future of this country. It is vital that we all have a plan to vote and make sure our friends and family vote, as well. When we all vote, we win.

WHAT'S AT STAKE FOR BLACK AMERICA

Click on image to view the video of the National Urban League's Reclaim Your Vote Virtual Panel recorded on October 22nd.

What's at stake for Black America in the upcoming election? In a word, everything. Never in our lifetimes has the needle shifted so perilously in the wrong direction, away from justice, economic parity, and police accountability, toward the normalization of hate. Democracy itself is at stake, with the integrity of the electoral process thrown in doubt by a crippling pandemic and deliberate acts of voter suppression and disinformation.

For African Americans, full voter participation isn't a goal; it's a necessity. Our Reclaim Your Vote session examines the stakes and the opportunities for African Americans as election season enters its final stretch. Join the critical battle for income equality, fairness in education, eliminating disparities in health care, criminal justice reform, and the power of your vote.
