Steve,

We've got exciting news to share! Last week, the New Rural Project welcomed our first two Regional Organizers: Quanisea Moses and Walsh Powe. These two exceptional leaders will collaborate directly with community stakeholders and volunteers to help carry out our various civic and electoral engagement programs, as well as to create and strengthen our long-term rural base-building efforts.

Quanisea holds a Bachelor of Arts in Politics and Justice Studies and a Minor in Mass Communications from Claflin University. She will use her experience as a 2020 Regional Organizer for the South Carolina Democratic Party Coordinated Campaign to support Hoke, Moore, Robeson and Scotland counties.

Walsh holds a Bachelor of Arts in Intelligence and National Security Studies and a Minor in Global Studies from Coastal Carolina University. In the 2020 election cycle, he worked for the SCDP Coordinated Campaign as a Digital and Field Organizer. He will use his skills and experience to support Anson, Richmond and Union counties.

I can speak for everyone here at the New Rural Project when I say that our enthusiasm about having these two exceptional organizers on our team cannot be overstated. Please help us support the programmatic work of our organizing team by making a \$25 investment today!

We're excited to see Quanisea and Walsh apply their experience and education to help us deepen relationships and our impact in rural counties. As you know, we hit the ground running and we will be able to do even more with organizers working directly in our communities.

Thank you for supporting our efforts,

Cynthia Wallace
Co-Founder & Executive Director
