We've been talking about economic mobility in Charlotte for a long time — but how do we really move the needle?

Join the UNC Charlotte Urban Institute and keynote speaker Dr. Andre Perry, senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, to address that question and more at this year's Schul Forum on Thursday, Nov. 18.

Details:

- When: Nov. 18., starting at 1:30 pm
- Where: Virtual. The program will be streamed live to participants, with the opportunity for you to ask questions.
- Who: In addition to Dr. Perry, the program features a panel with local leaders including Sherri Chisholm, Leading on Opportunity; Laura Clark, United Way of Central Carolinas; and Dr. Byron P. White, associate provost for the Office of Urban Research and Community Engagement.
- Why: "50 out of 50," and "the worst large metro region for economic mobility." We've been talking about these problems for years in Charlotte.

What steps can we take that will make a concrete difference for people in our community, enabling better access to jobs, education, health and the opportunity to improve their quality of life?

That's the focus of the 2021 Schul Forum: Moving the Needle in Charlotte and Beyond. We'll be talking about the challenges facing us and the solutions that we can implement to help our community.

We will also celebrate the work of our Gambrell Faculty Fellows, who are scholars studying these issues through a program funded by The Gambrell Foundation and Foundation For The Carolinas.

- What: The Marianne M. & Norman W. Schul Urban Institute Forum Series was established in 2018 to serve as an annual event focused on policy issues affecting the Charlotte region, convening local leaders, national experts and researchers from the institute and other parts of UNC Charlotte. The institute's first director, Dr. Norm Schul, and his wife, Marianne '73, enabled the creation of the series with a generous gift.
