Here's a resolution we can get behind: More reading in 2022! Help support your PreK-3rd grade child's reading growth with a free Reading Checkup. In as little as 20 minutes, you'll get an individual reading plan and fun, literacy-building activities to do at home.

If you've already tried out the Reading Checkup, don't stop there! It's recommended to take the quizzes about every six weeks to get new activities and update your child's progress, so keep visiting ReadingCheckup.org for fresh ideas.

New Mobile Library brings books to the community

The Charlotte Mecklenburg Library is making big moves with a new Mobile Library!

The new, 33-foot-long vehicle will start service in Mecklenburg County this month, with the aim of making library services more accessible to more people, especially in areas with limited access to a physical library building. It can hold up to 2,400 materials like books, audiobooks, magazines, CDs, and DVDs, and visitors can browse and check out items (including children's collections!), access free Wi-Fi and public use Chromebooks, and get library staff support.

To see the Mobile Library's schedule and learn more about it, visit cmlibrary.org/mobilelibrary.

COOL IDEAS FOR COLD DAYS

Cold winter weather might limit outdoor play time, but it doesn't have to limit fun!

Reading is Fundamental has some great winter-themed activities that will keep your little ones learning through the season, like:

Winter search & find: Search around your house to find objects that begin with each letter in the word WINTER (example: W - window; I - ice cube; etc.). Write what you find.
