Transitions on the Read Charlotte Governing Board

The governing board is a critical part of setting the vision, developing strategy and overseeing use of funding at Read Charlotte. Charles Bowman of Bank of America and Weston Andress of PNC Bank have been instrumental in stewarding this work for the past seven years, even before Read Charlotte had a name. As part of the core team that brought Read Charlotte to fruition, we cannot thank them enough for their leadership and insights as they now transition off of our board. Read Charlotte wouldn't be what it is today without them. We're excited to welcome our two new board members who are sure to bring strong guidance as we continue this important work -- Ben Psych of PNC Bank and Jennifer Ward of Bank of America.

Calling all summer camps: Help us reach more kids with reading support this summer!

The YMCA of Greater Charlotte is accepting applications from agencies interested in adding simple and fun literacy activities into their summer camp programs. The Y will provide training, support, and materials for the Summer Literacy Infusion program to participating camps, and the camps will then integrate one hour of literacy into each camp day. For more information, click here.

The application period runs through March 25. We invite you to apply or share this opportunity with other organizations in Mecklenburg County that might be interested.

Partners put A2i After School to use in our community

We love to see A2i After School in full effect through our partners' work in the community!

Black Child Development Institute-Charlotte and the YWCA both recently shared updates on their use of the A2i platform by Learning Ovations, which Read Charlotte brought to Mecklenburg County. BCDI is using it to provide literacy tutoring to Windsor Park Elementary School students, and the YWCA is using it with students in all eight of its Youth Learning Centers.

We're grateful for the wonderful work of these organizations, and that of all our partners!
