Steve,

In just a moment, I'll ask you to split a donation between Dirt Road PAC and the Alabama Democratic Party, but first, give me a moment to explain exactly how your donation will have an impact.

In the 2022 midterm elections, Alabama Democrats are targeting their efforts on eleven key races to make gains in the Alabama State Legislature.

They're running a coordinated campaign that will be a force multiplier for candidates — making the most of voter outreach to ensure they are talking to as many voters as possible to maximize the impact of your donation.

Like Dirt Road PAC, they're focused on empowering local organizations, candidates, and volunteers to get the job done.

And their approach isn't just centered around Election Day — in a state like Alabama, building a durable infrastructure and trust among voters is essential to the Democratic Party's long term success. So they're focused on the issues that matter most — curbing the cost of living, expanding Medicaid, raising the minimum wage to $15, and reversing the trend of mass incarceration by legalizing cannabis with a focus on restorative justice and building a tax base to support Alabamians with better schools, roads, and more.

Steve, my friend Jaime Harrison started Dirt Road PAC to fill a need helping Democrats compete in states we've written off in recent years like Alabama.

Alabama Democrats have shown before that when we invest, we can win — look no further than Doug Jones' historic victory in the 2017 U.S. Senate special election.

We can win more races in states the Washington establishment has written off, but it's going to depend on folks like you to step up and support state parties like in Alabama where your donation really matters.

Will you split a donation between Dirt Road PAC and the Alabama Democratic Party today to help them win eleven key target races and build Democratic power in the Alabama State Legislature? For races like these, your donations go a long way.
