Winning an election, gaining majority control, flipping a state blue — these are all things that don't happen overnight.

They require prior investment, a ton of commitment, and most importantly, grassroots support, Steve. That's why Jaime Harrison founded Dirt Road PAC, because building Democratic power is the best way to ensure we make long-term progress for the people.

We're investing in battleground states like Arkansas, Texas, Florida, Kentucky, and North Carolina as part of our mission to elect strong leaders in every state who will stand up against billionaire-funded politicians and the party of Trump. Can you pitch in right now to help us continue making strategic investments to build Democratic power?
