★ Message from Dee Dixon, Pride Magazine Publisher ★

Hi, Folks. ARE YOU READY?? It's time to dig out those gowns and tuxedos once again because you'll need to dress to impress at Pride Awards 2023! We're going to roll out the red carpet as Pride Magazine and the Pride Awards celebrate 30 years with a not so usual "Day Ball." That's right, we're having a gala during the day and we want you to be a part of this experience. With Truist as our title sponsor, we are being intentional about making this year's Pride Awards innovative, creative and outside the box. Please join us and let's make history together.

Leaving Racism and Confederate History Behind

Charlotte Mayor Vi Lyles stands behind the Druid Hills Way sign which replaces Jefferson Davis Street.

New Charlotte street names honor African American history.

A blanketing of social and political unrest happened in 2020, as Americans reckoned with how to move forward following the murders of George Floyd and Ahmaud Arbery, as well as the killing of Breonna Taylor. Many discussed the systemic racism and white supremacy sewed into the fabric of our country's history and questioned how to effectively denounce these ideologies from our society.

Teen Creates Map Showing the History of Slavery in Charlotte

Alexander created "Charlotte's Lost Slavery History" digital map to earn her Girl Scout Gold Award with the local Hornets' Nest Council. The award is similar to a Boy Scout Distinguished Eagle Scout award. A Google map and related handout highlight 18 Uptown sites organized as a walking tour, exploring areas where enslaved people once lived and worked, and even where they were sold.
