Steve —

The 2022 midterm election is officially over.

Democrats defended our narrow Senate majority and stopped the Republican red wave from materializing. We only lost a handful of seats in the House — many due to partisan gerrymandering from the 2020 Census redistricting.

We're in a strong position to win back the House and defend the White House and our Senate majority in 2024, but it's clear that we've got work to do.

Steve, your input is highly valuable to us — will you take a moment \(just a moment!\) to take our official Dirt Road PAC 2023 Priorities Survey?

TAKE THE SURVEY

Voters rejected the MAGA Republican, anti-democracy candidates running across the country, and spoke up strongly in defense of abortion rights and many other key issues.

We flipped state legislative chambers in states like Michigan, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania — proving that our top-of-the-ballot success was no fluke.

As we gear up for voter registration efforts, building state and local Democratic parties, improving our data operations, and working with grassroots organizations, we want to hear directly from you:
