Hi there,

In keeping with the longstanding tradition that started in the White House, President Obama recently dropped a list of his favorite books, movies, and music of the year. Enjoy!

The Obama Presidential Center will house a new branch of the Chicago Library—a perfect place for young people and visitors from around the world to check out some of the titles included on his list. It will also house a recording studio so future generations can explore their own artistic talents.

Here's to the power of the arts,
