FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Charlotte, NC – January 9, 2023 --- Pride Awards 2023 is set to take place at The Westin Charlotte on Saturday, February 25th beginning at 3:30 PM as a "Day Ball." The theme, "A 30-Year Journey of Inspiration and Innovation," will spotlight Pride's journey over the years, as well as showcase the inspirational and/or innovative achievements of this year's major sponsors.

The following awards will be presented at the event:

- The Pride Inspiration Award- presented to The Arts Empowerment Project
- The Pride Innovation Award- presented to Lowes Companies, Inc.
- The Pride Technology Award- presented to Jalen Hampton of Phillip O. Berry Academy

As customary, Pride Awards 2023 will donate funds to the above stated nonprofit – The Arts Empowerment Project, headed by Natalie Allen Frazier. Founded in 2011, its mission is to break the cycles of violence and trauma through arts opportunities that ignite change in vulnerable youth by providing access and exposure to arts and culture to those children lacking such opportunities.

"We are very fortunate to have an exceptionally strong team of corporate sponsors on board this year, led by title sponsor Truist," said Dee Dixon, CEO of Pride Magazine. "Other sponsors to date include Albemarle, Atrium, Bank of America and Wells Fargo, with Food Lion, Duke Energy/Piedmont Natural Gas, Northeastern University, U.S. Bank, Novant and WCNC on board, as well. We are truly grateful for their tremendous support, which makes our thirty-year celebration possible."

Pride Awards 2023 attendees should come dressed to impress for an extraordinarily exciting, out-of-the-box "Day Ball" gala. Plans include some high-energy entertainment, a tribute to freedom, the best-dressed couple award and a theatrical tribute to the legendary Aretha Franklin.
