Community Impact Assembly Recap

We are still full of energy and gratitude from spending a weekend with nearly 100 male educators of color in Charlotte last month!

Our Gentlemen attended 26 workshops geared towards supporting their professional and personal development needs (ranging from addressing stress and burnout to building inclusive spaces in the classroom).

See what Gentlemen had to say about the Community Impact Assembly

"This is my first year in a school leadership role. It was helpful to gain additional perspective on how to navigate the space as a Black male school leader."

"For me community is common unity and this experience has really helped me experience an ever growing community of men that are impactful in the education field."

"I am regrounded, refreshed, and rejuvenated"

"This community of educators/ men was exactly what my weathered heart needed to continue in the work. The sessions and learning groups were informative, engaging and relevant."
