Rep. Adams Condemns Supreme Court Ruling against Protections for the Unhoused

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Today, Congresswoman Alma S. Adams, Ph.D. (D-NC-12) released the following statement on the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling on protections for unhoused citizens:

"The Supreme Court's ruling that homelessness is not a protected status under the Eighth Amendment is a dangerous disgrace and is at odds with who we are as a nation. It punishes poor people for simply trying to exist. Instead of penalizing people without a roof over their head or a bed to sleep in, we should be working to make sure that every American in every corner of our country has a place to live— a fundamental human right.

I implore state and local governments— including Charlotte— to reject calls to prosecute unhoused Americans and, instead, put forth positive solutions that uplift those who are most vulnerable in our communities."
