Hi Steve,

Big news: The New York Times just covered our race for NC Commissioner of Insurance, specifically pointing out how high the stakes are in our fight for fair rates. They featured our push for transparency, our campaign about Mike Causey's sixteen private deals to raise our rates, and my commitment to working for the people instead of for the insurance companies.

Like the NY Times says, I'm "known for uncorking fiery speeches on the Senate floor"—and I intend to keep bringing that fire to my fight for North Carolinians as Commissioner of Insurance. We've known it all along, but this article is tangible proof: voters are realizing that Mike Causey's days of rubber-stamping rate hikes behind closed doors must come to an end.

Our campaign is gaining momentum, and the national attention we're receiving shows that this fight matters. But to keep the pressure on and win this race, I need your support.

If you're fired up about beating "Rate Hike Mike" Causey, now is the time to help. We're launching our TV ads in key areas across the state in a few days and we need your help to keep them running through Election Day. We are writing our final budget this week and need to know how many mailers we can afford, how much ad time we can buy, and how many fliers we can print. Brighter 'Times' ahead,

P.S. If you want to read the whole article, you can find it here! Thanks for your support.

P.P.S. If you prefer to donate by check, we love that too. Please make it payable to Friends of Natasha Marcus and mail it to PO Box 24, Davidson, NC 28036. If you prefer to donate online via NGP, click here to donate that way. Thank you!

P.P.P.S. I continue to attend briefings and stay abreast of the clean up and rescue work in Western NC following Helene. The devastation is a startling reminder of how urgent it is that NC have elected leaders who are ready to tackle the impacts of climate change. We have suspended all campaign outreach in that region of the state, focusing on getting folks the help they need as quickly as possible. If you can make a donation to help those efforts, I recommend contributing to the NC Disaster Relief Fund.
