Natasha MARCUS

NC Commissioner of Insurance

Hello friends.

Whether you've been with me from the start of this campaign, or joined more recently, I want you to know -- on the eve of Election Day -- that I really appreciate your support.

I'm proud of the strong, honest, grassroots campaign we've run.
I'm proud of the endorsements we earned.

I'm excited that our closing argument to voters will be broadcast statewide during the Chiefs v. Buccaneers football game tonight on ESPN. It's great timing to reach a key demographic for this race on the night before Election Day. Thank you to everyone who donated in the final ten days of the campaign to help us raise the money to buy time during the game. Let me know when you see it.

You have volunteered, donated, and helped share our message about the need for a new Commissioner of Insurance - someone who will work for the best interest of North Carolinians, not for political cronies and insurance company profits. Many of you have already voted - thank you. If you haven't yet, please go vote first thing tomorrow morning. Polling locations will be in your individual precincts (not the same as early vote locations) and are open 6:30am-7:30pm. Find your polling location and other info at iwillvote.com/nc

This remains a 50/50 race. The outcome will depend on which voters show up tomorrow. We feel confident that we've delivered our message to enough voters and that, with a little luck, we will pull off an underdog win and unseat the Republican incumbent. I'll be fighting for every vote right up until polls close.

Final thing - if you have any time to spare tomorrow, I hope you will volunteer to help us get out every last possible vote for me and all the other great candidates on the ballot who need your help. Find a volunteer opportunity near you here.

I'm so grateful for your support throughout this campaign.

Signing off until the polls close,
