

Harvard Kennedy School (HKS) Misinformation Review Digest: 7/2025

From Shorenstein Center on Media, Politics, & Public Policy <shorenstein@sc.hks.harvard.edu>
To <sjohnston@tuesdayforumcharlotte.org>
Reply-To Shorenstein Center on Media, Politics, & Public Policy <reply-fec712737d66007c-94_HTML-44553466-514003478-1002@comms.hks.harvard.edu>
Date 2025-07-29 16:28

View this email in your browser

July 2025: Volume 6, Issue 3

We are pleased to share our July 2025 Digest, which includes an overview of our latest publications on misinformation research.

Volume 6, Issue 3 includes Research Articles on declining information quality on X under new platform governance and on the unappreciated role of intent in algorithmic moderation of abusive content on social media; a Research Note on the small effects of short user corrections on misinformation in Brazil, India, and the UK; and Commentaries on gendered disinformation as violence and on the links between science misinformation and socioeconomic marginalization in the age of AI.

The HKS Misinformation Review continues to shape global misinformation research, with an impact extending to some of the most critical issues worldwide, including (cyber)security, democratic resilience, media literacy, election interference, public health, and AI governance. Our articles have been cited nearly 700 times by governments, media, and policy organizations in 53 countries across six continents, reinforcing the journal's position as a trusted policy-relevant resource on misinformation.

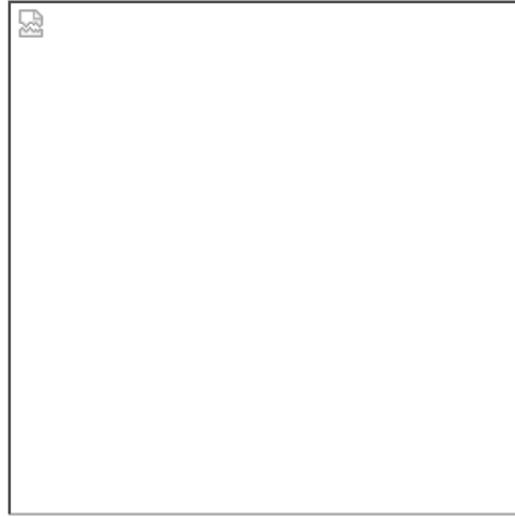

We are thrilled to feature the important work of our authors and to continue to provide a platform for rigorous, peer-reviewed research on misinformation. We accept submissions on a rolling basis. More information about the submission process can be found in our Author Guidelines. If you would like to join our reviewer community, please follow the steps on our Become a Reviewer page.

The continuing excellence of the HKS Misinformation Review is a result of the outstanding devotion of our worldwide group of reviewers. As always, we would like to acknowledge and thank all our peer reviewers, who have helped make our publications possible through their expert advice. We are deeply indebted to each of our reviewers and thank them for their dedication and invaluable feedback.

Thank you for your continued support for the journal!

The HKS Misinformation Review Editorial Team

Volume 6, Issue 3

RESEARCH ARTICLE

The unappreciated role of intent in algorithmic moderation of abusive content on social media

Xinyu Wang, Sai Koneru, Pranav Narayanan Venkit, Brett Frischmann, Sarah Rajtmajer

Read the article »

RESEARCH NOTE

The small effects of short user corrections on misinformation in Brazil, India, and the UK

Sacha Altay, Simge Andi, Sumitra Badrinathan, Camila Mont'Alverne, Benjamin Toff, Rasmus Kleis Nielsen, Richard Fletcher

Read the article »

COMMENTARY

Disparities by design: Toward a research agenda that links science misinformation and socioeconomic marginalization in the age of AI

Miriam Schirmer, Nathan Walter, Emőke-Ágnes Horvát

Read the article »

RESEARCH ARTICLE

Declining information quality under new platform governance

Burak Özturan, Alexi Quintana-Mathé, Nir Grinberg, Katherine Ognyanova, David Lazer

Read the article »

COMMENTARY

Gendered disinformation as violence: A new analytical agenda

Marília Gehrke, Eedan R. Amit-Danhi

Read the article »

About the journal

The HKS Misinformation Review publishes high-quality, interdisciplinary research that examines misinformation from different perspectives—from its prevalence and impact to the effectiveness of possible interventions—employing a fast-review process designed to publish articles within one to three months of entering peer review. Our content emphasizes real-world implications and applications and is released under open-access licensing.

Harvard Kennedy School (HKS)
Misinformation Review
Shorenstein Center on Media, Politics and Public Policy
79 John F. Kennedy Street, Cambridge, MA
02138 USA
© 2025 The President and Fellows of Harvard College

misinforeview.hks.harvard.edu |
misinforeview@hks.harvard.edu

Unsubscribe or Manage Preferences | Privacy

