ABC9: Redistricting: NAACP argues Missouri governor lacked authority for special session

The Missouri NAACP is challenging the state's Republican-led plan to redraw congressional districts, arguing the governor lacked the authority to call a special legislative session. Lawyers for the civil rights group said Gov. Mike Kehoe did not face the "extraordinary circumstances" required under the state constitution to convene the session. The NAACP says it is the only organization legally fighting to block the outcome.

YOUR VOICE, OUR WELLNESS

Take the Ace Your Health
Community Wellness Survey

SHARE YOUR THOUGHTS

We're in the final stretch. The ACE Your Health Community Wellness Survey closes at midnight NEXT WEEK on Tuesday, September 30.

For months, we've been gathering stories about the barriers our communities face, whether it's the cost of care, lack of access to essential services, or the daily stressors that impact overall health. Your voice matters in shaping the policies and resources that will respond to these challenges.

If you haven't yet, take a few minutes to complete the survey and encourage friends and family to do the same. Together, we can turn lived experiences into real change.
